Professional Licenses/Designations

Certified Public Accountant (CPA)

CPAs are licensed and regulated by their state boards of accountancy. While state laws and regulations vary, the education, experience and testing requirements for licensure as a CPA generally include minimum college education (typically 150 credit hours with at least a baccalaureate degree and a concentration in accounting), minimum experience levels (most states require at least one year of experience providing services that involve the use of accounting, attest, compilation, management advisory, financial advisory, tax or consulting skills, all of which must be achieved under the supervision of or verification by a CPA), and successful passage of the Uniform CPA Examination. In order to maintain a CPA license, states generally require the completion of 40 hours of continuing professional education (CPE) each year (or 80 hours over a two year period or 120 hours over a three year period). Additionally, all American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) members are required to follow a rigorous Code of Professional Conduct which requires that they act with integrity, objectivity, due care, competence, fully disclose any conflicts of interest (and obtain client consent if a conflict exists), maintain client confidentiality, disclose to the client any commission or referral fees, and serve the public interest when providing financial services. The vast majority of state boards of accountancy have adopted the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct within their state accountancy laws or have created their own.

Personal Financial Specialist (PFS)

The PFS credential demonstrates that an individual has met the minimum education, experience and testing required of a CPA in addition to a minimum level of expertise in personal financial planning. To attain the PFS credential, a candidate must hold an unrevoked CPA license, fulfill 3,000 hours of personal financial planning business experience, complete 80 hours of personal financial planning CPE credits, pass a comprehensive financial planning exam and be an active member of the AICPA. A PFS credential holder is required to adhere to AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct, and is encouraged to follow AICPA's Statement on Responsibilities in Financial Planning Practice. To maintain their PFS credential, the recipient must complete 60 hours of financial planning CPE credits every three years. The PFS credential is administered through the AICPA.

Retirement Income Certified Professional (RICP)

The Retirement Income Certified Professional® designation (RICP®) is issued by the American College of Financial Services. Applicants to the RICP® program must successfully complete 3 required courses, meet experience requirements (3 years business experience within the last five years) and agree to comply with the College's Code of Ethics and Procedures. The program courses are self-study and available online; each includes lectures, expert interviews, practice exams, assessment questions and professor-driven webinars. Each course concludes with a 2-hour 100-question exam. To maintain the right to hold out the designation, certificants must complete continuing education through the College's Professional Recertification Program.

OTHER BUSINESS ACTIVITIES

Your advisor is also a registered representative of the Firm. As such, your advisor may recommend the purchase of securities from the Firm. If you purchase securities from the Firm, your advisor will receive commissions on the sale of investment products and in certain instances receive ongoing 12b-1 fees, in addition to the receipt of advisory fees for advisory services such as financial planning services.

Your advisor is also an insurance agent and receives commissions on the sale of insurance products and in certain instances, payments for the renewal of certain insurance products, in addition to advisory fees for advisory services, such as financial planning services.

These payments vary by insurance product and company and may provide different incentives depending on the amount of the renewal payment. In some instances, sales commissions from life insurance provide a higher deposit rate to registered representatives than investment products. As such, a registered representative may have a financial incentive to promote certain life insurance products over other investment products. While the firm and your financial advisor intend to provide recommendations of products and services they believe are suitable for you, you should carefully evaluate each product or service recommendation based on your own financial situation and investment objectives.

Timothy Aguilard is engaged in offering Insurance and insurance products as an insurance agent under Common Wealth Insurance. A portion of their time each week is dedicated to insurance and insurance sales, and the financial advisor can earn commissions when acting in this separate capacity. Osaic Wealth, Inc. is not affiliated with the insurance providers used.

Please note that registered representative and insurance agent activities are reviewed and supervised by the Firm. This review includes transactions that you may conduct in your accounts based on specific recommendations to purchase products and/or services made by your registered representative.

With respect to certain other business activities unrelated to registered representative or certain insurance agent activities that your financial advisor may participate in, these activities are reviewed, and when appropriate approved in accordance with industry rules. While the firm may initially review these other business activities, these activities are not associated or in any way related to activity conducted by the Firm. Therefore, the Firm will not be responsible with respect to any recommendation or determination as to the suitability of your choice to participate in such activities. These other business activities may present certain conflicts of interest that you should be aware of and consider before participating in such activities. Please ask your financial advisor for further information.

ADDITIONAL COMPENSATION

As discussed previously above, your advisor is a registered representative and may also be an insurance agent. In addition to the receipt of advisory fees, traditional commissions and ongoing 12b-1 fees, the Firm may pay bonuses based on a registered representative's overall product and/or service sales, including with respect to advisory business, conduct sales incentive contests or provide marketing payments to its financial advisors to the extent permitted under applicable law. As a result, these arrangements may create a conflict of interest. While the Firm and your financial advisor intend to provide recommendations of products and services they believe are suitable for you, you should carefully evaluate each product or service recommendation based on your own financial situation and investment objectives.

Financial advisors may receive compensation from someone other than a client for providing investment advice or other advisory services to clients by referring clients to other investment advisers. As such, there may be potential conflicts of interests with these arrangements, including situations where the compensation paid to the firm or the financial advisor differs based on the particular third-party adviser. Therefore, financial advisors may have an economic incentive to recommend one third-party adviser over another. Additionally, certain third-party advisers may provide reimbursements to financial advisors as an offset for marketing and seminar materials for the advisory products and services offered. These situations may also create conflicts of interest that you should carefully consider.

SUPERVISION

The Firm supervises the investment advisory services provided by its financial advisors through a variety of methods, including a review by a licensed principal prior to a client's enrollment in any investment advisory service or prior to any new account opening. This review is designed to ensure that the products and services offered and recommended to clients are appropriate based on the particular client's situation. Additionally, the Firm conducts periodic ongoing supervision related to its investment advisory services. These efforts, which vary in frequency, include review based on a number of different factors, including but not limited to specific account activity and changes in a client's financial situation or investment objectives.

The individual responsible for supervising Timothy Aguillard is Michael Cox, Regional Supervision Director. Michael Cox may be reached at 800-821-5100.
